75th Independence Day: On 15th August'21 we have celebrated 75th Independence Day. What a mark & somehow, I am connecting this with the recent Olympic wins, the rate of Covid vaccination coverage etc & I am feeling positive about the progress. Of course, there is a lot that could have been done in a better way, but this is not the day to think of that. Let us continue to drive ahead with full steam & stay strong, positive & do the right thing in right way for a better India. We should aim at celebrating coming year as “Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav”, marking the completion of a quarter of century of freedom from the British Colonial Rule. Fill Tribunal Vacancies in 10 days: SC The statutory selection committee led by Supreme Court judges have collectively decided to stop conducting interviews to recommend names for appointment of members to important Tribunals till the bureaucracy clears 100 names
