

Dhaval Talati

This year marks a historic milestone for the Goods and Services Tax Practitioners' Association of Maharashtra (GSTPM) as it celebrates its 75th anniversary. For an organization that has stood as a pillar of guidance, learning, and professional camaraderie in the field of indirect taxation, this Platinum Jubilee is not just a celebration of longevity but of relevance, resilience, and service. As someone who has been associated with GSTPM for more than 35 years, I feel privileged to reflect on its journey and share some cherished memories of my own involvement. My association with GSTPM has been one of the most enriching experiences of my professional life, and being part of its evolution has given me immense satisfaction. The Legacy of GSTPM Founded in the post-independence era, GSTPM has consistently played a vital role in supporting tax practitioners across Maharashtra. From the days of Sales Tax and Central Excise, through the transit.....