

D. H. JoshiVijay M. Sachiv

We are living in a corrupt society! We do hear from 'Chanakya' Era that the then Society was, among other things, embedded with corruption. He had even given many instances of corrupt practices and they were heard in the 'King's Court.' Therefore, there is an old saying that a Fish, who always stay in the deep water or on the face of the water reservoir, and drink water without the knowledge of the protector of reservoir. Whether such doing is a natural activity or something else? This background for corruption or corrupt practices show how deep are its roots in the Society from ancient times. We have therefore, after Independence, enacted a law by Parliament for anti- corruption in the year 1947 to protect the Society from such evil. And Later on, we experienced that this Act is falling short to its objectives. Hence, Parliament in order to make it effec.....