

D. H. JoshiVijay M. Sachiv

‘No case is too small and no case is too big’ for the Supreme Court. The Union Law Minister, Kiran Rijiju said in Parliament that the Supreme Court should not handle trivial matters of bail. The Supreme Court Bench headed by Hon’ble Chief Justice, D.Y. Chandrachud replied that if it were not to interfere in the matters of liberty, then ‘what are we here for’? He further said that no case is too small and no case is too big for the Supreme Court because we have to answer the call of conscience and the cry of liberty of our citizens that is why we are here. When you sit here and burn the midnight oil, you realize that every day there is another one like this. The Hon’ble Supreme Court in this case released a man sentenced to 18 years in jail for nine cases of the electricity the.....